Musical Recital Under Auspices of the Woman's Club Is Pleasing

March offering of the music department of the Women's club Tuesday evening. Once each month the club presents a program for the entertainment of its members and friends. This month Mrs. W. W. Evans. contraito; Mrs. J. J. Pearce, accom-panist, and A. F. Slevers, planist, con-tributed to the pleasure of the club members with a program of songs and instrumental selections, which was given in the ball room of the Paso del

Boreas must have a grudge against musical HI Paso, for the wind pounded and hammered at the windows of the ball room Tuesday night, whistled around corners and made every effort to interfere with the concert, just as it did Sunday. Because of the disasprecable, cold wind, the attendance for the recital was smaller than that which usually attends the monthly musicals of the Woman's club. Those who possessed sufficient mavigation knowledge to negotiate the distance between their homes and the hotel without being blown away, were rewarded with an evening of splendid singing and equally excellent instrumental selections. Mrs. Pearce at the piano, and Mrs. Evans singing from the stage of the balinoom presented a pleasing picture with their absence of musical mannerisms and their wholesome enthusiasm and dignity. Mrs. Evans has a rich contrallo with a wonderful yolume. She sang without effort during the concert, although the program was a difficult one. Mrs. Evans sang the gavotte from Mignon by Ambrose Thomas, with a dash and airness that had the dancing swing of the gavotte in every measure. Two springs numbers, "A Spirit Flower," and "Spring," preceded the gavotte number. Part two of the program contained but two numbers, the "Cry of Rachel," which suited Mrs. Evans's personality perfectly, and the song cycle, "Effland," by Alexander von Fielita. This song cycle was preceded by a charming little falk by Mrs. Pearce, giving the theme of the seven parts of the cycle. There was an added interest to this number because von Fielitz, the composer, was in El Paso with the orchestra which was a pation of the song cycle was as pleasing as the songs. It is the story of a young monk whe had lived a sufficient length of time at the monastery is situated on the shore of a heautiful lake; ust across it a short distance is an Island on which its a convent.
